

A Perfect Fit

College of Natural Resources student Maggie Ernest wanted to make certain that her choice of major at NC State lined up with her career aspirations, so she joined the Co-op program in hopes of gaining some real-world experience in the field. Working at North Carolina's Jordan Lake, Ernest handled duties similar to that of the park's rangers, and determined that the scientific aspects of the job made for a perfect fit.