

2007

51st Annual North Carolina Pork Conference

Foreword

The Annual Pork Conference brings producers, allied industry supporters and industry leaders together to review the year past and build a new direction. By attending the educational sessions at this year's conference, producers can receive the latest production, environmental and industry information. This year several of the sessions will provide Continuing Education credit for operators of animal waste management systems. Also, take the opportunity to visit the booths in the exhibit area.

These proceedings document what was presented at the 51st Annual North Carolina Pork Conference. Thanks to everyone who has made this an outstanding event over the last fifty years.

Any errors in spelling or layout are the responsibility of the conference chair.

Enjoy the program.

Todd See
Conference Chairperson