

August 19, 2009

Dear _____:

This letter is to remind you that you are on Academic Probation for the 2009 Fall Semester. As a student on Academic Probation, you are required to meet with your academic adviser or the coordinator of advising in your college or department at the beginning of the semester. Meeting with your academic adviser is not only a good way to keep yourself on track, but it also satisfies part of the university's continuation policy. Once you have met with your adviser and completed the enclosed Academic Advisement Report, you will be cleared for future registration.

Additionally, you must maintain at least a 2.5 semester grade point average or raise your cumulative grade point average to the minimum as required by the university for continuation at the end of the semester or you will be subject to Academic Suspension. Please refer to the Continuation of Undergraduate Enrollment regulation for details about the minimum eligibility standards for continued enrollment.

We want you to succeed at North Carolina State University. In order to help students achieve success, NC State provides numerous counseling and tutoring opportunities. Your adviser will be able to help you identify which academic support programs would be best for you. These programs may include:

Advising Central: http://www.ncsu.edu/advising_central

Counseling Center: http://www.ncsu.edu/student_affairs/counseling_center

Undergraduate Tutorial Center: http://www.ncsu.edu/tutorial_center

If you have any questions about the NC State University's continuation policy or how it affects you, please contact your academic adviser.

Sincerely,

Louis D. Hunt, Jr.
Vice Provost for Enrollment Management and Services
And University Registrar
